HEC Paris ranked #1 in Europe by the Financial Times

The Financial Times has published the results of its 'meta-survey,' which combines the FT business education rankings of 2007 and is based on such figures as percentages of international faculty, female students, and employment rates for the last graduating class.

Within a pool of the top 60 graduate business schools in Europe, HEC Paris is ranked first for the second year in a row, testifying to our full range of high-quality postgraduate programs and confirming our status at the forefront of business education in Europe and beyond.
