Gajender Sharma, HEC MBA 2008, received last night in London the AMBA "Student of the year" Award 2008.

This prestigious award highlights MBA students who have demonstrated a talent for leadership and have shown potential as future ambassadors of the MBA. The criteria for the Award measure not only academic success, but also commitment to the business school and fellow students and contribution to the enhancement of the value of the MBA in the market. Each year, schools from all over the world are invited to nominate one exemplary candidate to participate in the competition.

The competition, organized by the Association of MBAs, is sponsored by The Independent.
